

I really thought this document could use a header so I'm adding one. I think I'll make it 10-pt Arial font in red. I think I'll centre it too.

I am creating this document for the purpose of testing format conversions. This line is formatted as Heading 1.....1
    This line is formatted as Heading 2.....1
        This line is formatted as Heading 3.....1
Here is another header 1. I'll follow it with a numbered list.....2

I am creating this document for the purpose of testing format conversions. This line is formatted as Heading 1.

Now I am adding a bulleted list, as follows:

- Here is the first bullet
- Here is the second bullet
- Here is the third bullet<sup>1</sup>

This line is formatted as Heading 2.

I thought a picture (.png) would look nice right here:

And how about some yellow highlighted text?

This line is formatted as Heading 3.

However, I have nothing to say in this section. Although I think I will insert a page break.

<sup>1</sup> This is a footnote.

Here is another header 1. I'll follow it with a numbered list.

1. Here is the first number
2. Here is the second number<sup>2</sup>
3. Here is the third number

Time for another picture, this time a jpeg:

Here is some text with tabs.

I've added a tab to the start of this sentence.

I've added two tabs to the start of this one.

Hey, why don't I put in a hypertext link? Like <http://www.archivematica.org>?
